RUSSIA LABELED MENACE TO PEACE

Pumpkin Show Chiefs Ironing Out Wrinkles For Annual Extravaganza

Circleville Pumpkin Show officials Monday night made final plans to batten down the hatches for the waves of humanity expected to sweep over this city of 9,000 citizens Oct. 20.

Within a period of four days, more than 200,000 visitors are expected to walk, drive or crawl into Pumpkin Show confines centering around Main and Court streets to see the Biggest Free Show On Earth.

"So help us, this town will be rolling in pumpkins, come show time," John Heiskell, program manager, declared Monday evening as the wrinkle schedule of events began to take shape.

Monday and Tuesday trucks and horse-drawn wagons began distributing the show's name-sakes, tons of 'em, to all the local business places for window displays, decorations and general atmosphere.

Pumpkin Show officials reeled off a long list of contests on the schedule which will be open to Pickaway Countians.

On the list are the Little Miss Pumpkin Show competition, Miss Pumpkin Show elimination, pet parade, baton-twirling contests, baby parade, an audience participation radio program amateur show, western horse show, bubblegum, pie-eating, hog-calling, flour-blowing and pumpkin pie baking contests.

With the approval of the state highway department, rerouting of traffic through Circleville will be effected early Sunday morning to allow workmen to begin construction on the maze of booths to line the streets.

James I. Smith and Service Director Joe Rooney expect to have helpers out at 5 a. m. Sunday clearing the way for the (Continued on Page Two)

Bin-Busting Yields Cited

No Food Shortage Seen By Experts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Record-smashing yields from a half dozen crops and near-record returns from as many more today promised to fill all consumer demands for food, feed and fiber.

A bin-busting corn crop estimated at 3,567,965,000 bushels—24 bushels for every man, woman and child in the country—leads off the record-breakers. Soybeans, peanuts, pecans and cranberries are other crops in the top yield bracket.

In addition, near-record harvests of wheat, oats, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grain, dry beans and citrus fruits are in prospect. Yields of a dozen or more crops, including potatoes, cotton and tobacco, are expected to be above average.

The Agriculture Department's monthly crop report in summarizing conditions on Oct. 1, said "unprecedented production" in 1948 is practically assured.

THE DEPARTMENT estimated that the overall yield will be about eight percent above the 1946 record.

D. A. Fitzgerald, the Economic Cooperation Administration's food chief, said that grain exports to Europe in the 1949-50 marketing year may equal the 475 million bushels expected to be shipped this year.

A 39 million bushel increase in the corn estimate over September figures undoubtedly will be reflected in a price drop.

The report contained the makings of at least one potential headache for the department—an estimate that the 1948 potato crop will be 418 million bushels instead of the 408 million forecast a month ago.

The government already has bought some 42 million bushels of tubers for price supports to bolster prices at the 90 percent of parity required by law.

Senator Asks 'Bombardment' With Leaflets

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Sen. Flanders, (R) Vt., proposed today America launch a "total propaganda war" against Russia by bombing the Soviets with guided-missiles loaded with leaflets.

The Republican senator suggested that the Russians be challenged to a "living standards contest" as one phase of the all-out propaganda conflict.

For the leaflet "bombardment," Flanders said American experts who are creating guided missiles should be able to find a way to "deliver" the messages behind the iron curtain.

The blunt New Englander declared that "we have been a mess of dubs" in the United Nations in "taking the Russians too seriously."

Flanders advocated that when the Russians "make long, solemn speeches" they should be answered "light-heartedly" and ridiculed by the reading of passages written by their leaders.

ANOTHER STATE BONER?

Local Owners Deny State Has Paid For Lake Land

Pickaway County's proposed Memorial Lake Tuesday apparently was the butt of another false report.

A press release from the State Department of Conservation declared that the land "has been acquired and paid for."

None of the nine land-owners, who will give up their property for this 161-acre conservation park, was aware of that fact Tuesday noon.

In fact they branded it "false" without hesitation.

They declared no checks had been received.

Several weeks ago, the state did take up its option on all the land. Unlike most options, the state was not required to advance any funds to bind the transactions. A "sleeper" clause in the option agreement left such transfer of funds unnecessary.

TUESDAY'S press release, set out by H. A. (Buck) Rider's office, said the Pickaway County tract was one of eight in which the state had "acquired" the land and "paid for" same.

The Tuesday press release recalls another similar memo from Rider's office which about two months ago declared that "construction is underway" at the Pickaway project.

Attempts by The Circleville Herald to reach Rider Tuesday for comment failed. Tuesday was being observed by all state offices as a legal holiday—Columbus Day.

Nevertheless, local property owners were in the dark concerning the "paid for" report.

Tom Renick, local attorney who has assisted several of the land owners in preparing transcripts and deeds in the deal, said Tuesday he was unaware that the land had been "paid for."

John Graffis, who owns slightly more than 100 of the 161 acres, reported he had not been paid. So did Walter Leist. Other owners are Harold Thompson, Gerald VanGundy, Fairy Laymaster, the old Ringgold Dairy farm, the McCoy Brothers, the Pickaway County Children's Home and Dewey Black.

ALL OWN property in the proposed lake area.

The seven other lakes included by the Rider press release are 187 acres in Butler County, 150 acres in Morgan County, 167 acres in Washington County, 184 acres in Defiance County, 375 acres in Hocking County, 505 acres in Knox County and 2,200 acres in Highland County. The latter is known as the Rocky Fork project.

Walter G. Richards, president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Club, said Tuesday he had written a personal letter to Gov. Thomas Herbert urging that the chief executive take a personal hand in the matter "on or before Nov. 2."

Richards said he signed the letter as head of the sportsmen's club and as a member of the Pickaway Republican central committee.

Final action on the lake is stalemated by the state where titles to land are being checked and re-checked to determine there is no error. The local transcripts have been in state hands several months.

Dewey Unlimbers Guns At Truman's Diplomacy

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 12—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today called the national administration's policy toward Russia "the tragedy of our times" and claimed that without Republican cooperation America would have had "no strength" in the present world crisis.

In a speech here, the Republican presidential candidate pledged "full partnership" in foreign affairs to all the American people if a GOP administration is put into office.

Dewey charged that the "rich benefits" of a bipartisan policy have been denied partly because of a failure to consult the Republicans before the Democrats made "sudden and vital policy commitments."

Talking tougher than at any previous point in his tour, the New York governor carried his campaign into Kentucky, the home state of Alben W. Barkley, vice-presidential candidate. It was the second major speech of his nine-state midwest tour.

HIS BORDER state foray followed a rousing reception in Pittsburgh where he accused President Truman's administration of "blunders and failures" both at home and abroad. He declared the Democrats "ought to be thrown out of office."

The Pittsburgh address which was broadcast nationally was primarily a criticism of President Truman's labor policies.

The Kentucky swing was designed to help Republicans retain control of the Senate—the one uncertainty in the minds of GOP leaders who are confident of a presidential victory.

The GOP nominee denounced the Communist leaders of Russia as "ruthless, hardheaded, ambitious men" and added: "The tragedy of our time has been that we have had an administration that did not understand these leaders and did not understand the great need for firmness and consistency in our foreign affairs."

"Time and again, America has been made to appear before the world as a fumbling giant, serving up diplomatic victories which only whetted the appetites of men whose appetites are world wide."

Herbert Hits Lausche

Truman Backed By Top Demo

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12—Gov. Thomas Herbert today charged his election opponent, former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, with leaving a record of "publicity and duplicity" in his term of office.

Lausche meanwhile was traveling Ohio with President Truman, and for the first time in the campaign publicly endorsed the President.

As the election—now just three weeks away—draws near, the Herbert-Lausche contest for the governorship remained a virtual toss-up. Glib predictions of victory came from each camp, but those who bet on the outcome were quoting 5 to 6 and take your choice.

The national campaign was a different matter. Despite Mr. Truman's swing through Ohio yesterday, the state is expected to return a plurality of some 200,000 votes for his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

HERBERT cut loose with his latest blast at the Lausche record in Ironton before a Lawrence County Republican rally. Without mentioning Lausche by name—but leaving no doubt as to whom he meant—Herbert stated:

"A man's record in public office catches up with him. That is what is happening to the last remnants of the New Deal in Washington today. That is what happened to the previous state administration."

"There is a record of publicity and duplicity. The practice of trying to be all things to all men results in being nothing to anybody."

Lausche meanwhile declared before a Democratic rally in Akron's armory that "my ballot will be cast for President Truman in the solemn belief that the nation will be served by his guidance."

The tardy endorsement of the President followed a day on the Truman campaign train during which Lausche repeatedly was praised by the President.

From Cincinnati to Hamilton to Dayton to Lima and at all way stops, the President plugged for the former governor's election, while Lausche remained in the background unless summoned forward by the President.

DOWNTOWN CLEVELAND STREETS are littered with confetti and ticker tape for the second Monday in a row as fans celebrate the Indians' victory in the 1948 World Series. The outburst was not nearly as noisy or long-lived, however, as the one the Monday previous when the Indians won the American League championship.

'48 County Fair To Show Profit, Chiefs Report

Pickaway County Fair Board Monday evening announced that incomplete returns from the recent County Fair indicate the local agricultural extravaganza more than made expenses.

Tom Harman, secretary for the board, reported at a meeting of the board that "receipts were greater and expenses were lower" than either last year's totals or this year's budget.

The 1948 figures received by the board so far show that the total admissions receipts were $11,057 compared to a total of $8,211 in 1947. Of these amounts, $6,411 came in at Fairgrounds entrance gates this year while $4,801 clicked through the turnstiles last year.

Fees from exhibits and concessions this year yielded a total of $3,361 compared to $1,451 in 1947.

Rides netted the fair $669 in 1948 compared to the 1947 figure of $248.

Fair board officials promised Monday night that a detailed report would be made public in the near future. Harman said he would be able to release the totals "this week."

Truman Fears Short Farm Vote

GREENFIELD, Ind., Oct. 12—President Truman expressed fear today that the prosperity the New Deal brought the nation's farmers might lose the Democratic Party votes next month.

Campaigning for the farm vote through this rich agricultural area, the President said at Greenfield, home of James Whitcomb Riley:

"Farmers are just like anyone else. When they get fat and lazy and too prosperous they forget to get out and vote."

Cute Child Photo Contest Winners To Be Selected

Results of The Circleville Herald's "Cute Child Contest" are to be announced by out-of-town judges within the near future. This week, The Herald received copies of photographs of the more than 100 Pickaway County area youngsters who were photographed by the Woltz Studios of Des Moines, Iowa. At no obligation to parents, photos were taken by these specialists in juvenile subject photography. Eldon A. Woltz, head of the photography firm, has advised The Herald that a panel of judges would forward its decision on the first four prize winners soon. In the meantime, The Herald will start printing copies of the photos. Combined in blocks of about six youngsters, the first of these photos will appear in Wednesday's edition of The Herald, each identified with name of child and parent. Complete reproduction of all photos, along with receipt of judges' decisions should coincide in about two weeks. First and second prize winners are to be given enlarged color photographs in gold-plated metal frames. Third and fourth place winners will receive a standard black and white enlargement in folders.

1st Draftee Is Named

Laurelville Man, 5 Others, Called

James R. Reichelderfer, 24, of Laurelville, is Pickaway County's first peacetime draftee classified 1-A. He will lead five other selectees Friday to Columbus for pre-induction physical examinations.

While not a veteran of last war, Reichelderfer is married. The six men were picked Monday evening at a meeting of local draft board No. 98 in the courthouse.

Board Clerk Betty Miner has sent out instructions for the men to report to the draft board office before 8:45 a. m. Friday. They will be transported in a bus to Building 221 at Fort Hayes for examinations.

Officials here emphasized that 1-A classifications by the local board does not necessarily mean the men will be drafted. An Army physical examination is first required to render a permanent status.

IT IS believed automatic exemptions will be granted in 18 to 25 age groups to those men other than single, non-father and veterans. Those in the 18-year bracket are likely to be held in reserve until they are 19.

Next month the county will call 13 men to report for physical examinations and in December five more will be summoned. Exactly how many of the Pickaway County men will be taken was not revealed.

More than 260 Pickaway County men have been classified by local board members and cards have been sent to those registrants. This county has a total of 1,419 men signed up for the draft.

Baby Is Left On Zoo Doorstep

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12—The baby was left on the doorstep in best fictional tradition.

But this time the baby was a baby spider monkey, left on the "doorstep" of Cincinnati Zoo.

Zoo officials said that unless the owner appeared and identified his pet, which they figured was tied to a wire fence on the zoo grounds and abandoned in the belief that it would be given a good home, it would be added to the zoo's regular monkey colony.

Probers Upheld

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The U. S. court of appeals today confirmed the contempt of Congress conviction of Eugene Dennis, Communist Party secretary, and upheld the constitutionality of the House UnAmerican Activities Committee.

State Secretary Going Back To Paris UN Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Secretary of State George Marshall returned to Paris today presumably with instructions for new steps to break the East-West deadlock.

Marshall was secretive about his plans when he left Washington aboard President Truman's special plane. He indicated, however, that he had received the chief executive's approval of strategy which the American delegation to the UN meeting may use in the future.

The instructions are believed to deal primarily with the proposal for a meeting of the foreign ministers council to discuss all questions dealing with Germany. The chief technical difficulty is holding such a meeting without some assurance that, if the talks fail to solve the whole problem, the Berlin blockade will not be renewed.

WHATEVER Marshall's plans are, observers familiar with his method of operation believe that he will have some surprises ready when he returns to the United Nations Assembly and Security Council.

These are believed to cover atomic energy control, creation of a UN police force and the Korean situation, as well as the more immediate German question.

Officials are of the opinion that Marshall's main purpose in visiting Washington on his weekend trip was greatly overshadowed by the unanticipated Vinson incident.

Miners Ordered Out For Ballot

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12—The nation's 400,000 United Mine Workers were under orders today from their chief, John L. Lewis, to shut down the nation's coal mines Election Day, just three weeks away.

Speaking from the rostrum at the UMW's 40th annual convention here, Lewis ordered his miners to cast ballots against congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley law and other political "enemies."

Railroads Ask 13 Pct. Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The Association of American Railroads formally asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for an average 13 percent increase in rail freight rates.

At the same time, the railroads requested an interim increase of eight percent pending action on their 13 percent request. The railroads asked that hearings be held later this month on the interim boost.

U.S. Asks Reds Show Intentions

Vishinsky Irked By Verbal Blows

PARIS, Oct. 12—The United States today vigorously attacked Russia today for advocating disarmament while following a unilateral course of conquest and threatening world peace.

Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, drew pointed attention to the 1939 Russo-German pact that carved up Poland. He blasted Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky for his country's aggressive moves in the Balkans and the Baltic states.

Vishinsky, who had sat grimly silent during Austin's onslaught at the morning session of the UN political committee, answered in a 25-minute speech in the afternoon.

Vishinsky accused the Big Three Western Powers of standing in the way of atom bomb destruction and disarmament "at any cost."

He objected to what he termed "unbridled attacks" on the Soviet Union by Western spokesmen.

THE SOVIET delegate mentioned speeches by British Foreign Secretary Bevin, Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium and British Minister of State Hector McNeill.

He said they all "transgressed permissible limits" and that Austin "exceeded them all."

It was clear from the vehemence of his answer that Vishinsky was deeply nettled by Austin's attack.

He said that the East and West camps speak a different language and that the Big Three power (Continued on Page Two)

Chris Columbus May Get Biggest Tomb In Americas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Final plans were submitted to the Pan American Union today for the mile-long memorial lighthouse to house the remains of the explorer who sighted the New World just 456 years ago—Christopher Columbus.

The plans were handed over as the nation celebrated Columbus Day in ceremonies from coast to coast.

The $5 million tomb—largest monument built to honor an individual since the pyramids of Egypt—will be the joint undertaking of 21 American republics working together through the Pan American Union.

Completion of the monument in 1951 will be fulfillment of a century-old dream first conceived by a Dominican historian.

THE WHITE stone light in the shape of a cross will tower over the Caribbean from a promontory outside Ciudad Trujillo. The Twentieth Century replica of the crosses marking the claims of early explorers also symbolizes the beacon of a new civilization lighting the world.

The site was chosen on an island closely associated with Columbus' voyages. Hispaniola, now divided into Haiti and the Dominican Republic, was one of the spots touched on the admiral's first trip to the New World.

Nisei Claims Trial Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12—Counsel for Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) d'Aquino will attempt to prevent her trial on treason charges on the grounds that the American-born Japanese woman is a Portuguese citizen.

This was the contention of Attorney Wayne Collins when he obtained from Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman here yesterday a two-week continuance of the 32-year-old Nisei woman's arraignment.

Collins argued that Mrs. d'Aquino became a Portuguese citizen in 1944 when she married d'Aquino, a Portuguese proofreader, in Tokyo.

ANOTHER STATE BONER?

Local Owners Deny State Has Paid For Lake Land

Pickaway County's proposed Memorial Lake Tuesday apparently was the butt of another false report.

A press release from the State Department of Conservation declared that the land "has been acquired and paid for."

None of the nine land-owners, who will give up their property for this 161-acre conservation park, was aware of that fact Tuesday noon.

In fact they branded it "false" without hesitation. They declared no checks had been received.

Several weeks ago, the state did take up its option on all the land. Unlike most options, the state was not required to advance any funds to bind the transactions. A "sleeper" clause in the option agreement left such transfer of funds unnecessary.

TUESDAY'S press release, set out by H. A. (Buck) Rider's office, said the Pickaway County tract was one of eight in which the state had "acquired" the land and "paid for" same.

The Tuesday press release recalls another similar memo from Rider's office which about two months ago declared that "construction is underway" at the Pickaway project.

Attempts by The Circleville Herald to reach Rider Tuesday for comment failed. Tuesday was being observed by all state offices as a legal holiday—Columbus Day.

Nevertheless, local property owners were in the dark concerning the "paid for" report.

ALL OWN property in the proposed lake area.

The seven other lakes included by the Rider press release are 187 acres in Butler County, 150 acres in Morgan County, 167 acres in Washington County, 184 acres in DeWitt County, 375 acres in Hocking County, 505 acres in Knox County and 2,200 acres in Highland County. The latter is known as the Rocky Fork project.

Walter G. Richards, president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Club, said Tuesday he had written a personal letter to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey urging that the chief executive take a personal hand in the matter "on or before Nov. 2."

Richards said he signed the letter as head of the sportsmen's club and as a member of the Pickaway Republican central committee.

Final action on the lake is stalemated by the state where titles to land are being checked and re-checked to determine there is no error. The local transcripts have been in state hands several months.

Dewey Unlimbers Guns At Truman's Diplomacy

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 12—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today called the national administration's policy toward Russia "the tragedy of our times" and claimed that without Republican cooperation America would have had "no strength" in the present world crisis.

In a speech here, the Republican presidential candidate pledged "full partnership" in foreign affairs to all the American people if a GOP administration is put into office.

Dewey charged that the "rich benefits" of a bipartisan policy have been denied partly because of a failure to consult the Republicans before the Democrats made "sudden and vital policy commitments."

Talking tougher than at any previous point in his tour, the New York governor carried his campaign into Kentucky, the home state of Alben W. Barkley, vice-presidential candidate. It was the second major speech of his nine-state midwest tour.

HIS BORDER state foray followed a rousing reception in Pittsburgh where he accused President Truman's administration of "blunders and failures" both at home and abroad. He declared the Democrats "ought to be thrown out of office."

The Pittsburgh address which was broadcast nationally was primarily a criticism of President Truman's labor policies.

The Kentucky swing was designed to help Republicans retain control of the Senate—the one uncertainty in the minds of GOP leaders who are confident of a presidential victory.

The GOP nominee denounced the Communist leaders of Russia as "ruthless, hardheaded, ambitious men" and added:

Herbert Hits Lausche

Truman Backed By Top Demo

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12—Gov. Thomas Herbert today charged his election opponent, former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, with leaving a record of "publicity and duplicity" in his term of office.

Lausche meanwhile was traveling Ohio with President Truman, and for the first time in the campaign publicly endorsed the President.

As the election—now just three weeks away—drew near, the Herbert-Lausche contest for the governorship remained a virtual toss-up. Glib predictions of victory came from each camp, but those who bet on the outcome were quoting 5 to 6 and take your choice.

The national campaign was a different matter. Despite Mr. Truman's swing through Ohio yesterday, the state is expected to return a plurality of some 200,000 votes for his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Truman Fears Short Farm Vote

GREENFIELD, Ind., Oct. 12—President Truman expressed fear today that the prosperity the New Deal brought the nation's farmers might lose the Democratic Party votes next month.

Campaigning for the farm vote through this rich agricultural area, the President said at Greenfield, home of James Whitcomb Riley:

1st Draftee Is Named

Laurelville Man, 5 Others, Called

James R. Reichelderfer, 24, of Laurelville, is Pickaway County's first peacetime draftee classified 1-A. He will lead five other selectees Friday to Columbus for pre-induction physical examinations.

While not a veteran of last war, Reichelderfer is married. The six men were picked Monday evening at a meeting of local draft board No. 98 in the courthouse.

Board Clerk Betty Miner has sent out instructions for the men to report to the draft board office before 8:45 a. m. Friday. They will be transported in a bus to Building 221 at Fort Hayes for examinations.

Officials here emphasized that 1-A classifications by the local board does not necessarily mean the men will be drafted. An Army physical examination is first required to render a permanent status.

IT IS believed automatic exemptions will be granted in 18 to 25 age groups to those men other than single, non-father and veterans. Those in the 18-year bracket are likely to be held in reserve until they are 19.

Next month the county will call 13 men to report for physical examinations and in December five more will be summoned. Exactly how many of the Pickaway County men will be taken was not revealed.

More than 260 Pickaway County men have been classified by local board members and cards have been sent to those registrants. This county has a total of 1,419 men signed up for the draft.

Baby Is Left On Zoo Doorstep

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12—The baby was left on the doorstep in best fictional tradition.

But this time the baby was a baby spider monkey, left on the "doorstep" of Cincinnati Zoo. Zoo officials said that unless the owner appeared and identified his pet, which they figured was tied to a wire fence on the zoo grounds and abandoned in the belief that it would be given a good home, it would be added to the zoo's regular monkey colony.

Probers Upheld

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The U. S. court of appeals today confirmed the contempt of Congress conviction of Eugene Dennis, Communist Party secretary, and upheld the constitutionality of the House UnAmerican Activities Committee.

State Secretary Going Back To Paris UN Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Secretary of State George Marshall returned to Paris today presumably with instructions for new steps to break the East-West deadlock.

Marshall was secretive about his plans when he left Washington aboard President Truman's special plane. He indicated, however, that he had received the chief executive's approval of strategy which the American delegation to the UN meeting may use in the future.

The instructions are believed to deal primarily with the proposal for a meeting of the foreign ministers council to discuss all questions dealing with Germany.

The chief technical difficulty is holding such a meeting without some assurance that, if the talks fail to solve the whole problem, the Berlin blockade will not be renewed.

WHATEVER Marshall's plans are, observers familiar with his method of operation believe that he will have some surprises ready when he returns to the United Nations Assembly and Security Council.

These are believed to cover atomic energy control, creation of a UN police force and the Korean situation, as well as the more immediate German question.

Officials are of the opinion that Marshall's main purpose in visiting Washington on his weekend trip was greatly overshadowed by the unanticipated Vinson incident.

Miners Ordered Out For Ballot

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12—The nation's 400,000 United Mine Workers were under orders today from their chief, John L. Lewis, to shut down the nation's coal mines Election Day, just three weeks away.

Speaking from the rostrum at the UMW's 40th annual convention here, Lewis ordered his miners to cast ballots against congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley law and other political "enemies."

Railroads Ask 13 Pct. Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The Association of American Railroads formally asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for an average 13 percent increase in rail freight rates.

At the same time, the railroads requested an interim increase of eight percent pending action on their 13 percent request. The railroads asked that hearings be held later this month on the interim boost.

Vishinsky Irked By Verbal Blows

PARIS, Oct. 12—The United States vigorously attacked Russia today for advocating disarmament while following a unilateral course of conquest and threatening world peace.

Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, drew pointed attention to the 1939 Russo-German pact that carved up Poland. He blasted Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky for his country's aggressive moves in the Balkans and the Baltic states.

Vishinsky, who had sat grimly silent during Austin's onslaught at the morning session of the UN political committee, answered in a 25-minute speech in the afternoon.

Vishinsky accused the Big Three Western Powers of standing in the way of atom bomb destruction and disarmament "at any cost."

He objected to what he termed "unbridled attacks" on the Soviet Union by Western spokesmen.

THE SOVIET delegate mentioned speeches by British Foreign Secretary Bevin, Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium and British Minister of State Hector McNeil.

He said they all "transgressed permissible limits" and that Austin "exceeded them all."

It was clear from the vehemence of his answer that Vishinsky was deeply nettled by Austin's attack.

He said that the East and West camps speak a different language and that the Big Three power (Continued on Page Two)

Chris Columbus May Get Biggest Tomb In Americas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Final plans were submitted to the Pan American Union today for the mile-long memorial lighthouse to house the remains of the explorer who sighted the New World just 456 years ago—Christopher Columbus.

The plans were handed over as the nation celebrated Columbus Day in ceremonies from coast to coast.

The $5 million tomb—largest monument built to honor an individual since the pyramids of Egypt—will be the joint undertaking of 21 American republics working together through the Pan American Union.

Completion of the monument in 1951 will be fulfillment of a century-old dream first conceived by a Dominican historian.

THE WHITE stone light in the shape of a cross will tower over the Caribbean from a promontory outside Ciudad Trujillo. The Twentieth Century replica of the crosses marking the claims of early explorers also symbolizes the beacon of a new civilization lighting the world.

The site was chosen on an island closely associated with Columbus' voyages. Hispaniola, now divided into Haiti and the Dominican Republic, was one of the spots touched on the admiral's first trip to the New World.

Nisei Claims Trial Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12—Counsel for Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) d'Aquino will attempt to prevent her trial on treason charges on the grounds that the American-born Japanese woman is a Portuguese citizen.

This was the contention of Attorney Wayne Collins when he obtained from Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman here yesterday a two-week continuance of the 32-year-old Nisei woman's arraignment.

Collins argued that Mrs. d'Aquino became a Portuguese citizen in 1944 when she married d'Aquino, a Portuguese proofreader, in Tokyo.

ers are "just hypocritical" about Russia. Vishinsky added:

"They talk the same nonsense about iron curtains and blockades which do not exist."

Vishinsky said the atom bomb must be banned if the world wishes to survive. He continued:

"Yet you want to keep the bomb—your illegitimate queen. The Soviet Union wants to cooperate with the West. We of the minority yearn for this on a basis of mutual respect and equality."

"But what has ideology got to do with it? Hitler had a capitalistic ideology. You tried to reach an agreement with him and tried to channel Hitler against the Soviet Union while conducting staff talks at Moscow in 1939."

Austin wound up his lengthy statement dramatically with an appeal to the Russians to alter their course when he said:

"We call upon the Soviet Union to work with us to dispel dread suspicion and give us some concrete evidence that Russia intends to adhere to the principles of the United Nations charter."

Austin demanded to know:

By what evidence can we judge the peaceful intentions of the Soviet Union?"

AUSTIN made his appearance before the UN Political Committee as the deadlock over the crucial Berlin issue grew tighter than ever, with expectations that the Western Big Three will move within 24 hours to indict Russia for threatening peace.

After citing the Russians on Berlin, their failure to agree to atomic energy control and reviewing their efforts to gain world power, Austin declared:

"We hope it is not true that the Soviet Union believes and acts on the premise that a conflict between Russia and the Western world is inevitable."

Austin's denunciation of Soviet practices was occasioned by the Russian proposal submitted by Vishinsky for a slash of world armaments by one-third in one year.

Tot Feared Lost In Mountains

SUNDANCE, Wyo., Oct. 12—More than 800 searchers and three airplanes today sought three-year-old Mickey O'Connor, believed to have perished in sub-freezing temperatures in the Bear Lodge mountains of Wyoming.

Crook County Sheriff William Blakeman said the child wandered away from his ranch home, 20 miles north of here Friday afternoon.

Blakeman said he doubts if the child could have survived four nights of cold.

Sheriff Warns Pranksters As Gate Is Lifted

Pickaway County law enforcement authorities have issued a pre-Halloween warning to pranksters after receiving the first report of the year on property damage.

Roy Strawser of Washington Township told Sheriff Charles Radcliff someone had taken the gate off his cattle pens and left it laying on a main road.

Sheriff Radcliff said apprehension of anyone caught destroying property would be placed in jail without further warning.

"Every year," he said, "law-abiding county residents suffer losses due to Halloween pranksters. I'm giving my warning now and let the chips fall where they may."

A similar warning is expected to come from Police Chief William F. McCrady in the near future. It was learned that Circleville police are going to make an all-out drive to halt the raiders.

Kiwanis Stock Judging Trophy Is Presented

Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday night presented its annual Pickaway County Fair junior livestock judging trophy to a team from the Duvall Go-Getters Club.

Leader of the club, Hewitt Cromley, accepted the trophy on behalf of the judging team which carried away top livestock judging honors at the recent fair here.

Cromley introduced members of the team: Bill Courtwright, Bob Smith and Charles Hines.

All outstanding young livestock men, this trio has taken group and individual prizes at both county and state fairs.

Following presentation of the trophy, Kiwanians saw a motion picture covering a meat cutting demonstration, detailing proper cutting and trimming of fancy and ordinary cuts of beef. The film was procured by Bill Landman, local grocer.

License Tags Costs $15 Extra

Robert Johnson of Jackson was fined $15 and costs in mayor's court Monday for failing to register his new pickup truck.

Johnson was taken into custody on Route 23 by State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells. When taken before Mayor Thurman I. Miller the man insisted he didn't need plates, since he had just purchased the vehicle. Police were holding the truck until it was registered properly.

Man Is Placed On Probation

Henry Bown of Circleville, who pleaded innocent to a grand jury indictment on a non-support count, has reversed his plea in Pickaway County common pleas court and has been placed on a three-year probation.

The court ordered Bown to pay $9 per week toward the support of his children and barred him from using alcoholic beverages and from loitering in places selling such drinks.

Sheriff Warns Pranksters As Gate Is Lifted

Pickaway County law enforcement authorities have issued a pre-Halloween warning to pranksters after receiving the first report of the year on property damage.

Roy Strawser of Washington Township told Sheriff Charles Radcliff someone had taken the gate off his cattle pens and left it laying on a main road.

Sheriff Radcliff said apprehension of anyone caught destroying property would be placed in jail without further warning.

"Every year," he said, "law-abiding county residents suffer losses due to Halloween pranksters. I'm giving my warning now and let the chips fall where they may."

A similar warning is expected to come from Police Chief William F. McCrady in the near future. It was learned that Circleville police are going to make an all-out drive to halt the raiders.

Miss Pumpkin Show Title Sought By County Girls

Pickaway County feminine pulchritude will reign in the Miss Pumpkin Show parade scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m., Oct. 21, as each high school entrant vies for "Queen of the Show" title.

The hard-fought-for honor, little less publicized than the Miss America contest, will fall on the pretty shoulders of a selection picked by three non-resident judges.

Last year the title was won by Miss Mary B. Woods of New Holland with Miss Jane Bennett of Kingston and Miss Marilyn Henis of Circleville named runners-up.

Fourteen entrants, 11 from Pickaway County high schools, one from Circleville and one each from Kingston and Stouts-ville, will be smiling their heartiest to gain the favorite nod of the judges.

THE BEAUTY parade, one of the outstanding highlights of the Pumpkin Show which opens here Oct. 20, is sponsored by Sigma Phi Gamma, international sorority.

Judging will take place on the Home Youngsters Tag Betty Sark As Club Chief

The Eager Beaver Recreation Club, organized last week by the Pickaway County children's home, has elected Betty Sark as president of the group.

Other officers elected were Dona Harrington, secretary, and Charles Shade, treasurer. Following is a list of the board of directors:

Betty Oyer, Dona Sark, Hazel Waites, Sam Sark, Jack Harrington and Bill Shade.

The club is planning a recreation program for the children's home to be organized from the proceeds of a "food booth" at the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

The stand will be located in the vacant lot on the corner of North Court and Pinckney streets and will sell hot dogs, hamburgers, soda pop, soup and pies.

Gas Tax Fund Is Distributed

Pickaway County and townships have received a $16,000 distribution from the state gasoline tax fund, Auditor Fred Tipton said Tuesday.

He said $10,000 was earmarked for the county and $400 was to be distributed to each of the 15 townships.

Ashville Names 2 Seniors For National Tests

Marilyn Hollis and James Klopfenstein have been elected by members of the senior class of the Ashville high school to compete in the nationwide Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Program.

The choice consisted in the selection of those from their number who, they felt, gave exceptional promise of leadership, and who were most likely to make an "important contribution to human progress."

The two seniors chosen will take a two-hour general scholastic aptitude test Nov. 17. Four kinds of awards are offered to those winning in the contest — four-year college scholarships, honorary college scholarships, college entrance prizes, and certificates of distinguished performance.

Gambling Probe Stirs Interest

RAVENNA, Oct. 12 — Formation of a good-government group to fight wide-open gambling in Portage County, today aroused interest in the election campaign in Ravenna.

The new civic organization is headed by Robert White, dean of the college of education at Kent state, and Robert Stockdale, Ravenna high school speech instructor.

The purpose of the group, they said, is to improve the quality of public service in the county.

PIN MONEY BEQUEST

PRESIDENTS' wives would get some overdue recognition from a Philadelphia lawyer's bequest, now about to be made available. In 1917 Henry G. Freeman, Jr., who left a $2,000,000 estate, provided that $12,000 a year be set aside and paid monthly to the President's wife "because I feel that the President of the United States receives such a miserable pittance for a man holding the greatest position on earth." Payments were to start after the death of the last of 26 recipients of an annuity provided in his will. The last has now died, and presumably the money becomes available.

The United States does not do much for its Presidents, still less for their wives, and nothing at all for former Presidents. Widows of Presidents are entitled to pension, and the wives of past chief executives can get a free mailing privilege, but only when specially authorized by Congress. Former Presidents do not get even that. If, however, one fell into dire poverty, there is no doubt that Congress would take steps to relieve his need.

Presidents' wives could doubtless use this pin-money gift to advantage. Few Presidents have had much money to spare, Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt being striking exceptions. The Freeman bequest might lighten their domestic problems.

And why not a pension for ex-Presidents, starting when they are 65?

TRADE AMID WAR

IT IS reported by John P. Leacacos, American correspondent, that some trade has continued between Palestine Jews and Arabs of Lebanon, Syria and Egypt, despite the fighting in the Holy Land. Jews and Arabs who long had maintained business relations told Leacacos, however, that they saw no reason why war between their peoples should disrupt the old contacts, which were mutually profitable and satisfactory.

The report is easily credible, for trade makes a strong bond which is little troubled by political or other ideological differences. People who engage in trade come to know and understand each other, usually to trust each other, and to realize that differences of national origin or creed or politics are much less important than is commonly supposed by those who have not the advantage of such common ground.

Trade which moves freely across international boundaries is of more than economic importance to peoples and nations. It helps to bind them more closely together, and to retard the development of quarrels which lead to wars.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—"Would you be young always, if you could?" the leading man in Private Lives says to the leading woman. If this pair of cardboard sophisticates will permit me to horn in and make it a three-way conversation, I would like to say, no, I would not like to be young always, but I do think I would like to be very young for just a few hours and coming into New York for the first time.

When you grow up within hailing distance of Manhattan, there is no "first" visit to remember; you are in and out of the city every few months with your mother, as she comes into town to buy a new dress or some living-room furniture.

Vaguely you remember ice cream sodas in Schrafft's or the smell of slip covers in Macy's and so on. None of that stays with you too long, though, for you have not, in the collegiate phrase, begun to register.

But what I do remember as my real first visit to New York was a Sunday evening subway ride when I was 14 or 15. With another headless adventurer, I rode downtown to see one of the old Collier's radio hours broadcast from behind a glass curtain on the stage of the New Amsterdam theater, a once-proud edifice now given over to the display of Van Johnson movies.

The show began around 8 o'clock, and coming into Times Square about an hour before, in the early autumn darkness, I was struck full across the face by the exploding lights, the soft night winds through the trees of Bryant Park, the tinsel, the incredible eight-ring circus going on endlessly.

The city to me was Lorelei, and Lorelei seduced me swiftly, inevitably, eternally. I have yet to leave her.

ALL THIS CAME TO MIND when Bill Johnston, the genial wandering minstrel who once was Bob Hope's advance man, told me of the behavior of a couple of dozen teen-agers from throughout the country who spent weekends in New York this past summer through

When Dean Alfange declared for Tom Dewey, it was not a hopping on an obviously gay and successful bandwagon. It is more likely, considering his personality, that Alfange would sooner hop off than hop onto a popular bandwagon. He is that kind of a man. He ran for Governor of the State of New York against Tom Dewey and made an astonishing showing, although the American Labor Party did not amount to much in New York State. Eventually, he helped to organize the Liberal Party as a right-wing manifestation of an attempt to organize labor as a separate and distinct political force by the American Labor Party, which had become the political arm of the Communist Party.

When Alfange ran for Governor of the State of New York, it was assumed that against Tom Dewey and John J. Bennett, Jr., he would have about 75,000 votes. Alfange drew about 400,000. It gave his group stature. When the Liberal Party was organized its leadership was intellectual; its grass roots are in Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers Union. Only Alfange and Dubinsky came to possess notable personal followings in it.

The Liberal Party did not want to support Harry Truman for the Presidency. It tried to encourage General Eisenhower to run on the Democratic ticket; when nothing came of that, the Liberals tried to encourage Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court to be a candidate against Truman at the Democratic Convention. When that failed, they reluctantly turned to Truman.

Nationally the Liberal Party amounts to little, but in New York State it could be important. The question is, What is the full effect of Dean Alfange's declaration for Tom Dewey? Liberals cannot vote for Wallace, and it is growing upon them that they cannot support Truman. Many of them have solved their problem by not registering, which means that they will not vote at all this year. Some will vote for Norman Thomas as a protest. Many will vote for Tom Dewey, following the lead of Dean Alfange and noting that The New York Times has finally broken with its traditions and come out for Tom Dewey. It would not be surprising if another pro-Truman newspaper in New York may declare, with hesitation and misgivings, for Dewey. In a word, the Liberal is in real trouble because he does not know where to go. Alfange plunged directly when he realized that he could not vote for Truman or Wallace.

This is a serious problem for David Dubinsky, who created the Liberal Party to offset the Communist power in the American Labor Party. Dubinsky, who is a Social Democrat and violently anti-Communist, heads a union of 300,000 persons, principally concentrated in big cities in the East. This means real political power, but actually he counts for more since Sidney Hillman died because their rivalry, in which Hillman was generally successful, during the Roosevelt regime, is ended. Dave Dubinsky leads his group alone.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BRAD GOT OUT of the cab before the house and glanced up. The lights were on in his grandmother's room. He gave the yawning driver, a man chilled to the bone in a sweater under his coat, a considerable bill. "Well, thanks, chum," said the driver, astonished, for this guy was obviously sober, "and Merry Christmas."

"The same to you," said Brad, went up the steps and left himself into the hall. On the landing, he switched off the downstairs light and a moment later tapped at his grandmother's door. It was not unusual for her to read late. And today was Christmas. He thought, with tenderness, when she was a little girl perhaps she did not sleep, thinking of her stocking and the tree. But he was uneasily aware that tonight her wakfulness would have little to do with Christmas . . . but a great deal to do with his absence from home tonight.

She said, "Come in," and Brad opened the door and looked at her, smiling. He said, "Merry Christmas, Gran . . . but you can't have your presents until your breakfast tray arrives."

She said, "I believe you have already received your major gift."

For happiness shone from him. Loving him as she did, it was impossible not to rejoice. But she feared and distrusted the source of the happiness.

Brad sat down on the edge of the bed, a gesture she deplored yet endured, and put his arms around the frail, thin shoulders. He said, "I'm a very happy man, Gran . . . and Gail sends her love."

"That, I do not believe. She is an honest young person and has no more love for me than I have for her."

Brad sighed. A man had trouble with his women. He said, "I believe each of you respects and admires the other."

"In my case, and in a manner of speaking, you are quite correct," said Alexandria. She looked very old and tired. She kissed his cheek and her lips were cool and dry, like withered flowers. She smelled faintly of talcum and of a very light, expensive perfume. "I have always wished the best for you," she said, "and I have always prayed for your happiness. You are taking a very serious step . . . she has accepted you?"

"Yes, and we know it's serious. I am sure Gail does, and I do when I am sensible enough to reflect upon it, which, at this juncture, isn't often."

"Naturally," agreed his grandmother. She thought back fleetly to her own engagement. All very correct, with Mr. Spencer calling on her parents. She remembered the dress she had worn, the room in which, a little later, they had sat together and alone. Over fifty years ago.

She said gently, "I hope that Gail will be with us tomorrow."

The given name came hard, and she thought it absurd. A girl should be called by a name with Copyright 1947, 1948, by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell. Published by Rinehart & Company, Inc. (Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

PIN MONEY BEQUEST

PRESIDENTS' wives would get some overdue recognition from a Philadelphia lawyer's bequest, now about to be made available. In 1917 Henry G. Freeman, Jr., who left a $2,000,000 estate, provided that $12,000 a year be set aside and paid monthly to the President's wife "because I feel that the President of the United States receives such a miserable pittance for a man holding the greatest position on earth." Payments were to start after the death of the last of 26 recipients of an annuity provided in his will. The last has now died, and presumably the money becomes available.

The United States does not do much for its Presidents, still less for their wives, and nothing at all for former Presidents. Widows of Presidents are entitled to pension, and the wives of past chief executives can get a free mailing privilege, but only when specially authorized by Congress. Former Presidents do not get even that. If, however, one fell into dire poverty, there is no doubt that Congress would take steps to relieve his need.

Presidents' wives could doubtless use this pin-money gift to advantage. Few Presidents have had much money to spare, Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt being striking exceptions. The Freeman bequest might lighten their domestic problems.

And why not a pension for ex-Presidents, starting when they are 65?

TRADE AMID WAR

IT IS reported by John P. Leacacos, American correspondent, that some trade has continued between Palestine Jews and Arabs of Lebanon, Syria and Egypt, despite the fighting in the Holy Land. Jews and Arabs who long had maintained business relations told Leacacos, he writes, that they saw no reason why war between their peoples should disrupt the old contacts, which were mutually profitable and satisfactory.

The report is easily credible, for trade makes a strong bond which is little troubled by political or other ideological differences. People who engage in trade come to know and understand each other, usually to trust each other, and to realize that differences of national origin or creed or politics are much less important than is commonly supposed by those who have not the advantage of such common ground.

Trade which moves freely across international boundaries is of more than economic importance to peoples and nations. It helps to bind them more closely together, and to retard the development of quarrels which lead to wars.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—"Would you be young always, if you could?" the leading man in Private Lives says to the leading woman. If this pair of cardboard sophisticates will permit me to horn in and make it a three-way conversation, I would like to say, no, I would not like to be young always, but I do think I would like to be very young for just a few hours and coming into New York for the first time.

When you grow up within hailing distance of Manhattan, there is no "first" visit to remember; you are in and out of the city every few months with your mother, as she comes into town to buy a new dress or some living-room furniture.

Vaguely you remember ice cream sodas in Schrafft's or the smell of slip covers in Macy's and so on. None of that stays with you too long, though, for you have not, in the collegiate phrase, begun to register.

But what I do remember as my real first visit to New York was a Sunday evening subway ride when I was 14 or 15. With another beardless adventurer, I rode downtown to see one of the old Collier's radio hours broadcast from behind a glass curtain on the stage of the New Amsterdam theater, a once-proud edifice now given over to the display of Van Johnson movies.

the courtesy of a radio show called Spotlight Revue, sponsored by a soft-drink firm that shall, in another deathless Coward phrase, be nameless.

"And where do you think these kids wanted to go first, most of them, when they blew into town?" Mr. Johnston asked, in gentle bafflement.

"Coney Island, that's where. Eight million attractions in the big city itself, everything from the Empire State building to Ethel Merman hitting F over high C—and they want to ride the roller coasters and eat cotton candy. Youth—I love 'em but I don't understand 'em."

The kids came in by pairs each weekend, one girl and one boy, and they were given rooms on the 25th floor of the Waldorf, another item that gave them a bang, since usually they'd never been higher than seventh floors in their lives.

The radio people gave them the super-deluxe treatment, including dinner at the Stork, luncheon at Sardi's, a visit to the Penthouse club and a limousine and chauffeur at their beck and call. Selma Rich, a 22-year-old native of this hazy Babel, acted as the chaperone for each set of visitors, and Miss Rich reported pleasant surprise at the fact that none of the young ones arrived with that unfortunate attitude that marks so many senior invaders—"Humph—this town is all right, I guess, but it ain't got half the stuff that good old Podunk has."

No looking down one's nose. For three days, the children were footloose in fairyland, and almost to a man they were agreed that now they were livin'.

MISS RICH WAS A FAITHFUL CHAPERONE and she was genuinely fond of her youthful charges—but after seeing Brigadoon five times and Annie Get Your Gun twice (those were the shows that most of the kids wanted to peek at), she compromised.

She dropped the small fry at the theater with their tickets, and then went off to a movie herself, returning to pick them up after the last curtain.

I wonder what they really thought. The deep-down feelings of an adolescent are something you can't bring to the surface even if you shoot a cannon off across the water, in the Huckleberry Finn-Tom Sawyer tradition.

They climbed back onto the train each Sunday night, thanked Miss Rich profusely and politely and then headed back home.

What were the thoughts going with them? Were they disappointed; were the expectations too great, and had Radio City seemed to them a squatters' outpost, or Central Park a ragheap? Were they full inside of a dozen mysterious pinwheels of emotion, whizzing and bursting and rocking them with the wonder and glory of metropolis? I wish I knew, I wish I knew.

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran Reads Paper At Meeting Of The Monday Club

'Citizens Awake' Topic For Evening

"Citizens Awake", was the title of the paper given by Mrs. N. L. Cochran before members of the Monday Club. Mrs. Cochran stressed the responsibility of every individual to his or her government.

Quotations from George Bernard Shaw, Henry Brooks Adams, Hendrick Van Loon, H. G. Wells and Abraham Lincoln were used to emphasize her statements.

Following are some of the outstanding statements from Mrs. Cochran's paper:

"The patriots who wrote our Constitution studied the history of Europe and Asia; they knew the cause of the fall of the Roman empire; back to the time when rulers—reached out for more power till they lost all control and responsibility and became decadent. These patriots knew there was just so much power within a country, that the more power the ruler had, the less control the people had, and the closer they came to enslavement. Our early leaders knew of England's Magna Charta—The thirty-ninth article containing the writ of habeas corpus and trial by jury; the most effective securities against oppression which the wisdom of man has devised.

"The Constitution was quite simple and patterned after the charters of the individual colonies. For the first time in known history, certain institutions and human relations were to be outside the authority of government.—After the 'Bill of Rights' there came a great influx of persons from the old world. They were in search of personal freedom and gained the greatest degree of security ever known to man. That freedom is gradually being lost.

"The Bill of Rights still exists on paper, but the spirit that was present when it was written is disappearing. One may go so far as to say that when that spirit is completely gone, that document will mean absolutely nothing. It has come to personal freedom versus government guaranteed security. It is not a deliberate force that is causing us to lose our heritage; it is our own weakness.

"Government for pressure groups is not government of the people or for the people. No one can tell us what to think or do; no one should. As a responsible person, each of us has the privilege and the obligation to pursue what each considers the right course of action; But before we act, let us understand the meaning and consequence of our actions."

In conclusion, Mrs. Cochran presented samples of the many federal, state, and civic local problems that confront our various political subdivisions.

Her concluding statement was, "After you have studied these and all the others and having made your decisions, have the courage to stand up and be counted."

Mrs. Joseph Bell was chairman of the evening's program. Mrs. James P. Moffitt presided for the business meeting.

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran Reads Paper At Meeting Of The Monday Club

'Citizens Awake' Topic For Evening

"Citizens Awake", was the title of the paper given by Mrs. N. L. Cochran before members of the Monday Club. Mrs. Cochran stressed the responsibility of every individual to his or her government.

Quotations from George Bernard Shaw, Henry Brooks Adams, Hendrick Van Loom, H. G. Wells and Abraham Lincoln were used to emphasize her statements.

Following are some of the outstanding statements from Mrs. Cochran's paper:

"The patriots who wrote our Constitution studied the history of Europe and Asia; they knew the cause of the fall of the Roman empire; back to the time when rulers—reached out for more power till its people lost all control and responsibility and became decadent. These patriots knew there was just so much power within a country, that the more power the ruler had, the less control the people had, and the closer they came to enslavement. Our early leaders knew of England's Magna Charta—The thirty-ninth article containing the writ of habeas corpus and trial by jury; the most effective securities against oppression which the wisdom of man has devised.

"The Constitution was quite simple and patterned after the charters of the individual colonies. For the first time in known history, certain institutions and human relations were to be outside the authority of government—After the 'Bill of Rights' there came a great influx of persons from the old world. They were in search of personal freedom and gained the greatest degree of security ever known to man. That freedom is gradually being lost.

"The Bill of Rights still exists on paper, but the spirit that was present when it was written is disappearing. One may go so far as to say that when that spirit is completely gone, that document will mean absolutely nothing. It has come to personal freedom versus government guaranteed security. It is not a deliberate force that is causing us to lose our heritage; it is our own weakness.

"Government for pressure groups is not government of the people or for the people. No one can tell us what to think or do; no one should. As a responsible person, each of us has the privilege and the obligation to pursue what each considers the right course of action; But before we act, let us understand the meaning and consequence of our actions."

In conclusion, Mrs. Cochran presented samples of the many federal, state, and civic local problems that confront our various political subdivisions.

Her concluding statement was, "After you have studied these and all the others and having made your decisions, have the courage to stand up and be counted."

Mrs. Joseph Bell was chairman of the evening's program. Mrs. James P. Moffitt presided for the business meeting.

LOU BOUDREAU IS ANSWER

Facts Show Cleveland Didn't Win With Hits

BOSTON, Oct. 12—Cleveland's singular Indians long since had departed this faintly dolorous scene today—definitely taking with them the 1948 championship of the world.

The championship came their way yesterday when the Boston Braves just missed pulling up even by a 4-3 count in the sixth and deciding game of the World Series.

The '48 World Series will be remembered, if at all, for not more than two things—and one will be the fact that the Indians won it with a notoriously low team batting average of .199; probably the worst by any winner in the 45-year record of the event.

Of the dozen or so first-line Indians, only Larry Doby and Ed Robinson were .300 hitters in the Series, each going two-for-four yesterday to finish with .318 and an even .300 respectively. Outside of Player-Manager Lou Boudreau's pretty useful .273, the rest finished strictly with spavin.

OF COURSE, there's always a patsy who has to take a rousing-around at the final check-over. But this time the Indians sort of overdid it in assembling this self-indictment:

Dale Mitchell, .174; Walter Judnich, (1 hit) for .077; Ken Keltner (2 hits) for .095; Jim Hegan, .211 and Joe Gordon, .182.

Some said it was all due to the slump that set in four days before the close of the American League season and lasted right through the big showdown itself which, indeed, might be the right of it.

Non-Cleveland correspondents, who saw much of the new champions during the last two weeks, told it another way.

Desiring to give credit impartially, they were inclined to blame it on two symptoms:

Boston pitching—and a tendency toward nocturnal wassail which the Cleveland club seemed at no especial pains to conceal. One story, dealing with the truculent climax of an Indian party at a Boston hotel two nights before the series, received wide circulation.

Allegedly preceding it was another which escaped disclosure.

As a conditioning process, this seemed a quaint approach to what is sometimes known as fine fettle for the Series—even if the Indians went the rest of the way on bread and water.

However, they did what they set out to do—they won the title, belatedly and a little under forced draft, but nonetheless conclusively, and in winning, brought to Cleveland the only honor of its sort in major league annals.

Two World Series, in 1920 and 1948—and two champions.

The snubbed and derided Braves wound up with a nation's approval and, in the end, almost stole the show.

YESTERDAY'S stirring wide-open finish saw Managers Boudreau and Southworth gambling their everything, with Cleveland Ace Gene Bearden pitching in relief against Relief Warren Spahn, who pitched six great innings the day before in Cleveland.

Bearden almost blew it in the wild eighth, then saved it with a jackpot stab of Mike McCormick's careening smack to end the inning while the tying and winning runs roosted on third and second base respectively. This episode furnished only one of Boston's minor ifs.

One that made the major categories had to do with Phil Masi's booming double against the leftfield wall in the eighth, to score one man and leave the fabled pair in a position to go the rest of the way.

If six feet higher, they estimate, Masi's hit would have cleared the wall for a home-run—and that would have made all the difference in the world.

It even would have made a ninth inning Hegan-to-Robinson double play on Sibby Sisti's pop bunt a negligible factor; although, without it, Earl Torgeson—the Series "champion" at .389—might have come to the plate a last time for one of his devastating thumps far afield.

Actually, there was only one conclusive and abiding difference between the clubs—a man named Boudreau who, it seemed, was having a kind of an "off" series at bat.

All he could do was get six of the Indians 38 hits, hit four doubles, drive in three runs and score another himself.

On defense, nothing was going to stop him, and nothing did. The Indians really won the Series there, since they could hardly have done it with .199 team average.

Royals Grab Little Series From St. Paul

MONTREAL, Oct. 12—The Montreal Royals reigned today as the world champions of minor league baseball.

The International League champions captured the Little World Series yesterday by downing St. Paul of the American Association, 7 to 2.

Montreal took four out of the five games played in the best four-of-seven series. St. Paul won the opening game.

A crowd of 11,590 saw the Royals stage a five-run rally in the sixth inning to wipe out a 2 to 1 lead enjoyed by the Saints.

A three-run pinch-hit triple by Oscar Grimes was the big blow. Jack Banta started for Montreal and was given credit for his second Series win although he had to be relieved by Frank Laga in the seventh.

Pat McGlothin started for the Saints but was driven from the hill in the big Royals' sixth. He was charged with the defeat.

Bucks Think They Will Bounce Highest In Joust With Indiana

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12—Two rebounding football teams will square off in Bloomington, Ind., Saturday, and the victor will be the eleven that can bounce the highest.

Both Ohio State and the University of Indiana suffered initial losses last weekend after winning two in a row.

The difference is that the Hoosiers' two victories were within the Western Conference at the expense of Wisconsin and Iowa, while the defeat came at the hands of Texas Christian, 7 to 6, the first time they stepped outside the conference.

Ohio State polished off Missouri and Southern California then was battered down, 14 to 7, by Iowa the first time it poked its head inside the Big Nine family circle.

Local Reserves Meet Greenfield Here Thursday

Circleville reserve football team will try for its third win in four starts Thursday evening when it plays host to the juniors of Greenfield.

The local reservists lost their first game of the season to the Junior Gales of Lancaster (19-7), but came back in the next two games to trim Canal Winchester reserves (26-6) and the Washington C. H. subs (20-14).

The Circleville aggregation is composed primarily of freshmen and eighth graders, although a sophomore or two usually breaks into the lineup for relief during the tilts.

Probably starting lineup for the junior Tigers in the Greenfield match will be Turner, LE; Cockrel, LT; Kerns, LG; Bartholomew, C; Ford, RG; Coffland, RT; Johnson, RE; Rooney, QB; Raymond, LB; George, RH; and Sowers, FB.

Gametime for the junior fracas is set at about 7:15 p. m. No gate charge will be made.

Lemon Starts With Sore Arm

BOSTON, Oct. 12—Lefty Weisman, trainer for the Cleveland Indians, revealed on the Tribe's special train last night that Pitcher Bob Lemon took the mound with a sore arm yesterday.

"Bob had a cold and a soreness developed," the Cleveland trainer disclosed. "I had heat pads on him all night and worked on his arm for several hours before the game. It still was bothering him at game time but Bob was determined to pitch."

Lemon allowed only one run until the eighth when a single, a double and a walk got him in trouble.

Barons Braced For Card Opener

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The Cleveland Barons, with only two new players, open their 1948-49 hockey season tonight against the Washington Lions in the capital city.

The two newcomers are Ralph (Bus) Wycherly, a forward who starred with Minneapolis last winter, and Bryan Hextall, right wing purchased from New York.

Wycherly probably will see action tonight, while Hextall is not expected to join the team for a few days.

out by Buck Coach Wes Fesler and two of his assistants at a news conference yesterday, listeners received a definite impression that Fesler is convinced it'll be the Bucks who bounce the highest.

SCOUTS Esco Sarkkinen and Ernie Godfrey discussed the Hoosiers in a tone of respect but not of fear. Both said the Indiana first team, of which each member is a two or three-letter man, stacks up alongside any in the conference.

Superior reserve strength, however, may make the Bucks slightly superior. Fesler expects to be in better shape physically than he was last week when he had Ray Di Piero, first string guard, and his two best right halfbacks, Alex Verdova and Mike Cannavino, out of action.

Fesler revealed that Pete Perini, star punter and defensive quarterback, received a going over in the Iowa game that may shelve him this week.

In refusing to give details of Perini's injury, Fesler disclosed that henceforth he'll give no information on injuries that might abet the opposition.

Fesler and his aides finished studies of the Iowa game pictures and stated flatly: "We beat ourselves."

Braves Already Planning For Another Flag

BOSTON, Oct. 12—Manager Billy Southworth happily looked back today upon almost superhuman efforts that won the Boston Braves the National League pennant and looked ahead with plans to keep it.

Boston literally patted "Billy The Kid" on the back for the performance of his ball club, which came within a few swings of the world's championship.

In his moments of greatest elation, Southworth viewed the future with pardonable trepidation.

The people who run the Braves are convinced they can't repeat with the ball club which carried the Cleveland Indians to yesterday's sixth game before succumbing, four games to two.

General Manager John Quinn refused to comment on plans for next season beyond saying: "We think we will be in there again next year if we can get a little help. We are out to get any available ball player who will help our club."

"That doesn't mean we are going on a trading foray, but it does mean we are going to obtain any player we think will help us to retain the National League pennant and perhaps win the world championship next year."

Clement Paces NFL Gain Aces

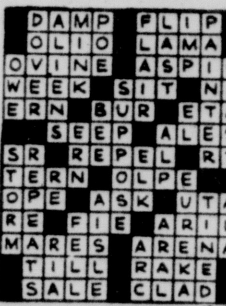

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12—John Clement of the Pittsburgh Steelers emerged today as leading ground gainer of the National Football League.

League statistics give Clement a total of 223 yards on 47 attempts. He supplanted Tony Canadeo, of Green Bay, who slipped to third with 198 yards on 41 tries.

The Pittsburgh power house is closely pressed, however, by Elmer Angsman, of the Chicago Cards, who has recorded 217 for 37 ground forays.

Go Easy On Grazing, Expert Warns

Ground 'Heaving' It Detailed

Winter Weather Dangers Cited

"Go easy on grazing or cutting alfalfa this Fall, if you want to reduce damage from Winter heaving," advises Larry A. Best, Pickaway agricultural agent.

"Heaving is usually blamed on severe Winter weather," he reports. "But Michigan State College experiments indicate it may be caused by starvation of alfalfa roots."

"Michigan research men found that in September and the first part of October, alfalfa plants manufacture and store up in their roots large quantities of starch. This starch acts as reserve food to carry the plant through the Winter and start vigorous growth in Spring. But if alfalfa is cut or pastured in early Fall, new top growth occurs which robs the roots of needed nutrients."

"In the Michigan tests, alfalfa was cut from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31, at two-week intervals. Records were kept of the location of the field and the date of the first killing frost."

"COMPARISON of roots dug up from plots cut at different dates showed that plants cut from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 had the smallest amount of plant food stored in them. These alfalfa fields showed the most heaving. The starved roots had little resistance and died more easily."

"When plants were cut Oct. 31, food had already been safely stored up in the roots. The season was then so far advanced that little or no top growth occurred. The plant food stayed in the roots and was available for growth the following year."

Best points out that farmers can give alfalfa roots a "full stomach" by not skinning off all top growth in the Fall, and seeing that the plants receive plenty of phosphate and potash.

Well-fed roots will be able to anchor themselves more firmly

Pumpkin Pie Bakers Challenged By Pair Of Contests Next Week

Pickaway County's pie-bakers this week were given a challenge which is destined to pay off handsomely.

Two concurrent contests, each paying off with a brace of prizes, is scheduled as a major feature of the 42nd annual Circleville Pumpkin Show to open here Oct. 20.

One contest, the same one held here annually, will provide cash prizes for winners during each of the four days of the Pumpkin Show.

A second show, backed by General Mills, will provide merchandise prizes for winners daily. A grand champion pumpkin pie baker will be named from the eight winners. All pies entered in either contest will go to the Youth Canteen, sponsors of a pie booth—a nickel a slice.

Stipulations in the General Mills contest state that the firm's "Crustquick" and either Country Colonel or Mozart canned pumpkin must be used.

NO DEFINITE rules are attached to the "open" cash prize

in the ground and resist Winter killing. They will have reserves of plant nutrients to insure dense top growth next Spring. The life span of the alfalfa can be lengthened and yields increased by top-dressing with phosphate and potash in the Fall. Agronomists at some agricultural experiment stations recommend applications of 300 to 600 pounds per acre.

Well-fed roots will be able to anchor themselves more firmly in the ground and resist Winter killing. They will have reserves of plant nutrients to insure dense top growth next Spring. The life span of the alfalfa can be lengthened and yields increased by top-dressing with phosphate and potash in the Fall. Agronomists at some agricultural experiment stations recommend applications of 300 to 600 pounds per acre.

Best points out that farmers can give alfalfa roots a "full stomach" by not skinning off all top growth in the Fall, and seeing that the plants receive plenty of phosphate and potash.

Yom Kippur—most holy day in the religious calendar of the world's Jewry—will be celebrated by Pickaway County's handful of orthodox Jews beginning at sundown Tuesday and continuing until sundown Wednesday.

Coming at the end of 10 days money and the remainder in accounts and personal goods.

Appraisers were C. D. Kraft, Clyde Brinker and Charles C. Cloud.

of penitence following Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, Yom Kippur is the Day of Atonement—a day of fasting and devout prayer.

The 24 hours of atonement, according to Hebrew tradition, begin with the Kol Nidre chant at sunset of the first day of worship.

The following day's ceremonies include a memorial service for those in the congregation who have died during the year.

Worship closes with the blowing of the shofar, the ram's horn, which signifies the end of the fast.

Go Easy On Grazing, Expert Warns

Ground 'Heaving' It Detailed

Winter Weather Dangers Cited

"Go easy on grazing or cutting alfalfa this Fall, if you want to reduce damage from Winter heaving," advises Larry A. Best, Pickaway agricultural agent.

"Heaving is usually blamed on severe Winter weather," he reports. "But Michigan State College experiments indicate it may be caused by starvation of alfalfa roots."

"Michigan research men found that in September and the forepart of October, alfalfa plants manufacture and store up in their roots large quantities of starch. This starch acts as reserve food to carry the plant through the Winter and start vigorous growth in Spring. But if alfalfa is cut or pastured in early Fall, new top growth occurs which robs the roots of needed nutrients."

"In the Michigan tests, alfalfa was cut from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31, at two-week intervals. Records were kept of the location of the field and the date of the first killing frost."

"COMPARISON of roots dug up from plots cut at different dates showed that plants cut from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 had the smallest amount of plant food stored in them. These alfalfa fields showed the most heaving. The starved roots had little resistance and died more easily."

"When plants were cut Oct. 31, food had already been safely stored up in the roots. The season was then so far advanced that little or no top growth occurred. The plant food stayed in the roots and was available for growth the following year."

Best points out that farmers can give alfalfa roots a "full stomach" by not skinning off all top growth in the Fall, and seeing that the plants receive plenty of phosphate and potash. Well-fed roots will be able to anchor themselves more firmly

Pickaway County's pie-bakers this week were given a challenge which is destined to pay off handsomely.

Two concurrent contests, each paying off with a brace of prizes, is scheduled as a major feature of the 42nd annual Circleville Pumpkin Show to open here Oct. 20.

One contest, the same one held here annually, will provide cash prizes for winners during each of the four days of the Pumpkin Show.

A second show, backed by General Mills, will provide merchandise prizes for winners daily. A grand champion pumpkin pie baker will be named from the eight winners. All pies entered in either contest will go to the Youth Canteen, sponsors of a pie booth—a nickel a slice.

Stipulations in the General Mills contest state that the firm's "Crustquick" and either Country Colonel or Mozart canned pumpkin must be used.

NO DEFINITE rules are attached to the "open" cash prize
